Hilton Hotema, the self-proclaimed Son of Perfection, was a controversial figure in the early 20th century. He claimed to be the reincarnation of Jesus Christ and preached a message of love, healing, and redemption. Hotema's teachings were a blend of Christian Science, New Thought, and the Metaphysical Movement, and he attracted a large following of devoted believers.

Hotema was born in 1883 in Illinois. He had a difficult childhood, and he was often ill. As a young man, he became interested in spiritualism and the occult. He claimed to have had a series of visions and revelations, which led him to believe that he was the reincarnation of Jesus Christ.

In 1919, Hotema founded the Church of the Son of Perfection in Los Angeles, California. He began to preach his message of love, healing, and redemption. Hotema claimed that he could heal the sick and raise the dead. He also taught that people could achieve perfection through spiritual development.

Hotema's teachings were controversial, and he was often criticized by the religious establishment. He was also accused of fraud and charlatanry. However, Hotema continued to attract a large following of devoted believers. He died in 1950, but his teachings continue to be followed by his disciples today.

Hotema's Teachings

Hotema's teachings were a blend of Christian Science, New Thought, and the Metaphysical Movement. He believed that God is the only reality and that the physical world is an illusion. He also taught that people could achieve perfection through spiritual development.

Hotema's teachings on healing were particularly controversial. He claimed that he could heal the sick and raise the dead. He also taught that people could heal themselves through faith and prayer.

Hotema's teachings on perfection were also controversial. He claimed that people could achieve perfection in this life. He also taught that perfection was a state of consciousness, not a physical state.

Hotema's Legacy

Hotema's legacy is complex and controversial. He was a charismatic and influential figure, but his teachings were also controversial. He was accused of fraud and charlatanry, but he also inspired a large following of devoted believers.

Hotema's teachings continue to be followed by his disciples today. His message of love, healing, and redemption has resonated with people for over a century. Whether or not one believes in his claims, there is no denying that Hotema was a remarkable figure who had a significant impact on the religious landscape of the early 20th century.
